ment in the Fisher-Gould case was re-Hustings Court, this morning. Mr. Ezra B. Tuttle, of the law firm of Tuttle, Flint and Nichols, New York city, spoke for the plaintiff. His speech was clear with certain specific facts. He gave a full account of the Atlantic Development struction by the Goulds. It was organized of selling the securities of the liginia Passenger and Power Company. He read the record of the meetings of the company, which have been filed in pany contracted with the Virginia Pasit $6,500,000 of its five-year bonds at 90 It is claimed that all of these bonds were delivered to the Atlantic Development Company. Company. The records show that a large number of them were delivered prior to Drecember 23, 1902.

On December 23, 1902, there was an adjustment agreement made between the Virginia Passenger and Power Company and the Atlantic Development Company and the plaintiffs and Miss Helen M. Gould and Mr. Frank Gould and others, by which it was provided that absolute control of the Virginia Passenger and Power Company and of the Atlantic Development Company should be delivered to Mr. Frank Gould and Miss Helen M. to Mr. Frank Gould and Miss Helen M. (Sould.

The Goulds agreed and undertook to wind up and dissolve the Atlantic Development Company. Mr. Tuttle declared inst the Goulds took all the assets of the Atlantic Development Company, but failed to pay its debts or carry out its obligations. The records of the Atlantic Development Company, filed in court, show this contract with the Goulds. It appeared that $3,00,000 or the Virginia Passenger and Power Company bonds had been sold and paid for. The remaining $2,50,000 of bonds had not been paid for. The Atlantic Development Company had recured numerous underwriting agreements for the sale of the bonds to other parties.

inents for the sale of the bonds to other parties.

The Atlantic Development Company received over $3,00,000 common stock and $2,000,000 preferred stock of the Virginia Passenger and Power Company for its services in selling the $5,500,000 of five-year bonds at $9.

Mr. Tuttle claimed that when Gould kot control of the Atlantic Development Company he took possession of the $5,500,000 bonds of the Virginia Passenger and Power Company, which had not been paid for, and of all the common and preferred stock of the Passenger and Power Company owned by the Atlantic Development Company, paying 44 cents on the dollar for the bonds. In addition to this the Goulds now claim to own $3,000,000 of the floating debt of the Virginia Passenger and Power Company,

Mr. Tuttle's contention was that for all the bonds, all the stock and the floating debt of the road, the Goulds paid only $3,00,000. He was severe in his condemnation of the course of the Goulds in the entire transaction, claiming that they had loaded the company with debt, for which it received little or nothing.

Mr. H. W. Anderson, of counsel for defendants, followed Mr. Tuttle. His speech was a legal argument on a demurrer. He claimed that the bill filled by the plaintiffs was insufficient in law for many reasons, including misjoinder of partles and muittle. was insufficient in law for many reasons, including misjoinder of parties and multi-

Dr. Mcliwaine is greatly beloved and respected in this city, where he was form and reared. It is hoped by the Petersburg Alumni that his successor will be chosen with the greatest care, and that the board of trustees will follow Davy 'Crockett's 'wisdom, and be sure that they are right before they go ahead. A friend of the college said to-day that a part of the endowment was an 'ante-tellum' bond of Virginia for one hundred 'thousand dollars, upon which the State paid the college full interest of six thousand dollars a year, as it dees to all other colleges in Virginia, holding these old bonds. He suggested that the state should retire these old bonds and give the college holding them century Londs, yielding an income to the college canal to that now paid. This arrangement would not add a dollar to the fitate's expenses, and would greatly benefit the endowments of all the colleges, which have been so generously treated by the State in the rearrangement, of its cebt.

EMPORIA, VA., July 12.—Emporia will in the near future have a complete system of water works and sewerase.

This was decided at yesterday's election, in which the voic polled in favor of the movement clearly demonstrated that property owners were anxious to have a water works system installed.

The cost of equipping the town as indicated above will be about thirty thousand dollars. Bonds will be issued by the town for the amount mentioned, and upon disposing of them work will begin at once and pushed without delay.

There will be little or no trouble in disposing of the bonds in question, as already the city fathers have the situation well in hand, and the money will be forthcoming when needed.

The bar men of Emporia and Befield have forwarded a position to Circuit Judge West, at Weverly, asking that he grant an election within the next forty days in order that the prohibition question can assume a definite shape. The whiskey men appear to be tired, of the manner in which they are being treated by the local option faction, and prefer to bring the matter before the voters at the carliest time possible in order to settle tha question.

Applicants as teachers in the Emporia graded school and in the county are now undergoing. Examinations are conducted by Superintendent Machin. There are quite a number in attendance who want positions as teachers. The result of the contest will not be made known until Saturday, the 18th instant.
